

Sermon Questions for 2/11/18

- 1) Why is opposition from within more difficult to battle against than the opposition that comes from outside?
- 2) How would you define sin? How does that compare with Pastor Dan's definition in the sermon?
- 3) How do you respond to Nehemiah' anger in vs. 6? Is there such a thing as righteous anger? How did Nehemiah respond to his anger?
- 4) What was so bad about what the Jews were doing to each other in chapter 5?
- 5) What sin(s) do you see in the church today (do not name names, just sins), & how is it having the same effect on God's people today?
- 6) Do you agree with this statement, "Sin needs to be addressed if true reform is to take place"? Yes or no and why
- 7) Why is it so hard to call sin for what it is, and address it in ourselves and in others in the church?
- 8) Why should circumstances never determine obedience to God and His Word?
- 9) How did Nehemiah's example combat this opposition from within?
- 10) Why is church discipline essential for the health of a church?

Sermon Questions for 2/11/18

- 1) Why is opposition from within more difficult to battle against than the opposition that comes from outside?
- 2) How would you define sin? How does that compare with Pastor Dan's definition in the sermon?
- 3) How do you respond to Nehemiah' anger in vs. 6? Is there such a thing as righteous anger? How did Nehemiah respond to his anger?
- 4) What was so bad about what the Jews were doing to each other in chapter 5?
- 5) What sin(s) do you see in the church today (do not name names, just sins), & how is it having the same effect on God's people today?
- 6) Do you agree with this statement, "Sin needs to be addressed if true reform is to take place"? Yes or no and why
- 7) Why is it so hard to call sin for what it is, and address it in ourselves and in others in the church?
- 8) Why should circumstances never determine obedience to God and His Word?
- 9) How did Nehemiah's example combat this opposition from within?
- 10) Why is church discipline essential for the health of a church?